

Flash gifts
What to get for the people
who matter at work p112

Opening Remarks

14

New proposals to tame the U.S. deficit have run into the same old dysfunctional politics. America, it seems, isn't ready to grow up. Plus: Charlie Rose talks to Alan Simpson and Erskine Bowles

Global Economics

21

From BRIC to BIIIC?

Some investors say Indonesia should replace Russia in the emerging market quartet

The high-flying Aussie p22
A whiff of inflation in bonds p23
The feel of cotton could soon cost more p26
Seinfeld economicsB p26
Tom Keene's EconoChat p26
Seven days ahead p28

Companies & Industries

31

Rich man on campus

Executive compensation at for-profit colleges far outpaces that at traditional schools

Bill Gates closes in on eradicating polio p32
Audi races to catch up to its German rivals in the U.S. p33
Fears of a bubble in the Hong Kong wine market p34
Briefs p35

Politics & Policy

37

Defending Obamacare

As Republicans take aim at the individual mandate, the health-care industry gears up to save it

Wal-Mart vs. angry women p39
The U.S. Chamber's stealth media empire p40
The diplomats' army p42
How Obama is using China p42
A Tea Party food fight p44

Technology

47

Inside Zynga's Hit Factory

The social game maker is under pressure to make CityVille, its successor to FarmVille, another smash

Has Cisco lost its focus? p49
Facebook's plan to get users to unfriend Gmail and Yahoo! p50
Credit-card networks woo software developers p53
Gesture-driven computers p55

Markets & Finance

59

China's startup market

The ChiNext stock exchange makes it easier for young, fast-growing businesses to raise cash

Toronto-Dominion's U.S. charm offensive p60
Citigroup's big push into small business lending p61
Jefferies' M&A talent hunt p62
Brighter profit forecasts p64
Bid & Ask: The week's deals p66

Enterprise

69

Art for health's sake

Nonprofit O+ is part of a movement to help artists and musicians barter their talents for health care

Training women angels p71
No recovery for small biz p71
Beyond the infomercial p72
$100,000 to leave college? p74
Bowling in Times Square p76
Bringing Israel to Ohio p78
New global growth engine p80

Erin go blah A worker in the once-booming Docklands area of Dublin

Features

82

Ireland's Reckoning

No longer the Celtic Tiger, Ireland may be going the way of Greece. A guided tour of the wreckage p82

The Fury of a Team-Owner Scorned

Dan Gilbert aims to prove his Cavaliers are better off without departed superstar LeBron James p94

How Panda Express Wins Friends

The fast-food chain has fueled its phenomenal growth in a novel way: employee self-help p98

Karl von der Heyden's Kings of Industry

The former CFO of Pepsi, Heinz, and RJR Nabisco on big brands and big personalities p104

Etc.

109

All Yesterday's Parties

With fewer companies holding holiday bashes, a tradition of getting bombed with co-workers is fading

Gift Guide What to get a client, a cubemate, an assistant, and the boss p112
Work Drug 'Tis the season for Eggnog Lattes and all the other holiday coffee drinks that ward off the cold and fatten the profits at Starbucks and Dunkin' Donuts p114
Branding How Richmond, Va., became the city of Christmas lights p116
One True Thing Secret Santa gifts under $20 that will impress your co-workers p118
The Stack A seething Matt Taibbi goes after the rich and powerful in Griftopia p120
Hard Choices Richard Branson on parting with his beloved Virgin Records, saving his airline, and contemplating a merger with another carrier p122