

Euro Crisis

9

Opening Remarks A single European identity? The idea was doomed from the start. How today's crisis is rooted in the past p10

Currency A return to the drachma would drive Greek import costs sky-high and make borrowing nearly impossible p13

Banks A Grexit from the euro could trigger a run on European banks p14

First Person Athenians speak about what it's like to live in a country without hope p16

Quality of Life Tragedy plays in Athens as incomes shrink and many professionals look for a way out p17

Education The celebrity economist who warned of default has joined the brain drain of Greek academics p18

Bloomberg View Germany's banks enabled Greece's profligacy. They need to assist in the cleanup p19

Companies & Industries

21

Fighting coupon addiction Retail star Ron Johnson is trying to wean J.C. Penney shoppers from discounts. It's not going well

Ferrari's green supercar p22
Netflix reanimates nixed network shows p24
Commencements: CEO wisdom p24
Briefs: Daunting airfares p26

Politics & Policy

28

Mayors. Who needs 'em David Cameron's plan to let people elect local leaders has elicited a yawn from British voters

Romney's experts, whose advice he ignores p29
Lobbying to become a lobbyist p31
Googling while driving p32
Obamatown vs. Romneyville p33

Technology

35

Go Daddy classes up The domain hub's private equity backers see a big upside in new markets like cloud computing

How universities woo tech millionaires p36
Spammers hit social media p37
Facebook goes shopping p38
Innovator: Leap Motion wants to kill the mouse p41

Markets & Finance

45

Start the finger-pointing The Facebook IPO sours, and the blame game begins. Prime target: Morgan Stanley

Geeks on a plane: Star Search for entrepreneurs p46
Futures on the Black Sea p48
L.A.'s hot housing market p50
Bid & Ask: The week's deals p51
Charlie Rose/Donald Gogel p52

Awash in poison Workers processing gold ore in Colombia p62

Features

58

The Google-Rola Hardware Co.

After years of hardware futility, Google acquires Motorola. Now can it take on Apple for real? p58

Mercury Madness

Millions of small-scale gold miners use the toxic metal, which makes illegal trade in it very lucrative p62

Goldman's Jobs Act

Why is a bank synonymous with Wall Street greed giving $500 million to help small businesses? p70

Franchising the Maker Movement

TechShop gives tinkerers a garage—and big companies a way to spur employee innovation p74

Etc.

79

It's All in the Wrist

When hedge funders and Hollywood titans want to blow six figures on a watch, they call Bob Maron

Branding Fifty Shades of Grey and its adventurous fans are stirring up business for sex toy companies such as Pure Romance, Babeland, and Sportsheets p82

Work Drug Chia seeds, the stimulant of choice in the bullpens of Wall Street p84

Next Life A sports agent goes to a tech startup that helps brands "make the game" p85

The Tube The Pitch, AMC's other show about Mad Ave, badly needs reality TV melodrama and ad men like those who inspired Don Draper p86

Hard Choices South Dakota congresswoman Kristi Noem on her decision to drop out of college two decades ago. Now she's finally getting her diploma p88