

Bloomberg Businessweek

June 3-June 9, 2013

Opening Remarks A tricky flight path ahead for Fed heir apparent Janet Yellen	10
Bloomberg View Can immigration reform survive Congress? • Saving Europe's lost generation	12
Global Economics
As China's nouveaux riches travel more, they long to learn the finer points of Western etiquette	15
Natural gas exports have the U.S. chemical industry steamed	16
Indonesia suddenly starts acting green	17
Inspecting Bangladesh's crumbling garment factories	18
Morocco keeps pouring money into restive Western Sahara	19
India's gold grab	20
Companies/Industries
With vacationers staying close to home, theme parks are enjoying their best ride in years	23
Choice chestnuts from this year's commencement speakers	24
To stay in the winner's circle, Ferrari hits the brakes	25
The fight for first-class passengers comes to domestic flights	26
France invades the U.S.—with billboards	26
Briefs: Banking looks better to Moody's; Valeant buys Bausch & Lomb	27
Politics/Policy
Eric Schmidt bets Obama's Big Data team can engineer big wins for business	28
The ER may get even more crowded under Obamacare	31
A bill to make sure your drugs aren't doctored	32
Technology
The Android operating system is turning up in just about anything that has a chip	35
Meet China's most eligible tech takeover target	37
The serendipitous byproduct of Google's autofill function: Poetry	37
DreamHammer's software lets one pilot control many drones	38
Innovation: A mechanical shoreline barrier promises to neutralize tsunamis	40
Charlie Rose talks to Tumblr founder David Karp	42
Markets/Personal Finance
Doing retirement right Down Under	44
How Janus is trying to end investors' race for the exits	45
An open door for young stockbrokers in a brutal market	46
Rich college students get merit aid. The poor get bigger bills	47
Prognostications: Party like it's not 1999. This is no stock bubble	48
Energy
Oil companies race to the bottom of the sea	51
A frustration for electric car owners: The lack of a single way to pay for a charge	52
A crude awakening in Vancouver	53
Spreading solar panels, one installment plan at a time	54
Features
Rise of the Alpha Dads Could men be better than women at solving the work-life dilemma?	58
What, Me Worry? Daniel Mudd, ex-CEO of Fannie Mae, sleeps very well at night	64
Porn Copyright Trolls A law firm made millions by threatening to sue men for illegal downloads	70
Etc.
Better to live on your feet than die at your desk. Next weekend, take an adventurous trip	75
Review: As a songwriter, The-Dream tops the charts. On his new solo album he plays an unlikely role: Underdog	78
The best way to bypass all those suckers and cut airport security lines	79
This summer's coolest ties, modeled by the always natty Bodhi the Menswear Dog	80
San Franciscans rage against the Google bus as a symbol of all that's wrong with the high-tech economy. Oh please	82
Advice from a billionaire	82
What I Wear to Work: Ramon Villa, CFO of music publishing company Primary Wave Music	83
How Did I Get Here? The career path of NBCUniversal's Lauren Zalaznick	84

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

