

Opening Remarks The Tea Party's costly victory • The new normal in Congress 10

Bloomberg View When economists lack vision • Ensuring U.S. troops' security in Afghanistan 14

Global Economics

In many rural counties, your friendly neighborhood banker is doing just fine 17

An effort to clean up Angola's slums by moving residents out 18

At China's Third Plenary Session, real reform looks less likely 20

Long-unemployed Americans find unexpected sources of cash: Their hair, their kidneys ... 22

Correlations: A homebuilders' ETF has recovered handily. Too bad the actual market hasn't 24

Companies/Industries

Facing a $19 billion judgment, Chevron wages an all-out assault on the plaintiff's attorney 27

Caesars bets on a big wheel, and it ain't roulette 28

Buy yourself a 2015 Escalade. That's how far down the road some carmakers are 29

In Hunan province, a restaurant that dwarfs all others 30

A British invasion of American video services 32

Briefs: Apple shops at Burberry 33

Politics/Policy

Europe has Tea Parties everywhere. They've just learned to compromise 35

Who's delighted with Ted Cruz? The donors who helped him into office 37

Under Obamacare, insurance companies rush to learn how to court customers 37

Girls in Pakistan defy the Taliban—by going to school 38

A new secessionist movement: Counties trying to pull out of states 39

Hidden Hand: The man who watches over the debt ceiling 40

Technology

Two billionaires brawl in Japan 42

SIM cards are getting hacked—and costing carriers a fortune 43

Disguise your browser's location, and you can dodge fees on everything from movies to NFL games 44

Innovation: A free iPad app aims to educate and entertain kids 46

Markets/Personal Finance

Target-date funds weren't designed for times like these 49

Having built the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, Raj Date launches a for-profit financial startup 50

New apps help you save money and invest smarter 51

After a massive investor retreat, Capital Group tries a charm offensive 52

Circle Financial Group's Ann Kaplan takes a teamwork approach to wealth-building 53

Features

Chive On! At the Maxim-like social network, half-naked women, beer, and big profits 60

Open-Source Surgery The Obamacare website is a mess. Here's why—and how to fix it 68

Tequila Hangover Soaring Mexican agave production could leave a bitter aftertaste 72

Etc.

Is its cool playlist one reason you keep going back to Chipotle? Thank master DJ Chris Golub 87

Beauty: Blow-dryers have gotten smarter since the last time you bought one. Also, stylist Paul Labrecque's hair tips 90

Strategy: Steady eye contact is supposed to be the ultimate negotiating weapon. It's not as simple as that 92

The Critic: On Vanilla Ice Goes Amish, Madonna's ex-boyfriend hobnobs among the hayseeds 93

Books: Why there are so damn many Malcolm Gladwell books at the airport bookstore 94

What I Wear to Work: Dermatologist Peggy Fuller favors elegant jewelry, cheery colors, and glowing skin 95

How Did I Get Here? "Keep your moral compass," says Jeff Blau, and yes, he's in real estate 96

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

1 "Looks too much like a birthday party." "It could play off of Alice in Wonderland."

2 "Think it should be weirder and focus on Cruz."

3 "This seems like the right amount of weird." "Is there a way to incorporate Boehner?"

4 "We made him the Cheshire Cat." "This is creeping me out."

5 "Whoa. Too much Boehner."

6 "Do we still have that Cruz cover?" "Sigh."

