

Look for the hechsher
The kosher stamp of approval is everywhere p98

Opening Remarks

11

The euro zone crisis may prod leaders to tighten links between nations. If not, it might be wiser to accept that Europe isn't ready for a full union than to sacrifice a generation to an impossible ideal

Global Economics

15

Let many reactors bloom

China wants 40 nuclear plants operating by 2020. Industry giants are jumping in, despite the risks

The new call center king	p17
Saudi succession dilemma	p18
India's hot spice market	p20
A savings boon for banks	p21
Q&A: Turkey's Finance Minister on Europe's troubles	p21
Seven days ahead	p22

Companies & Industries

25

Men are back at the mall

Retailers are seeing more guys this season. And so far, they're spending more than women

Flying Qantas through crisis	p26
The Rothschild who wants to be the king of coal	p27
Chinese tourists give European luxury goods a boost	p28
Charlie Rose/Mike Duke	p30
Briefs	p32

Wish we were there A skyline view of thriving Niagara Falls, Ont.

Features

68

The Partnership

Tim Geithner and Ben Bernanke kept the U.S. out of a depression. But the Fed's latest moves have set off fierce attacks. How the pair is fighting back p68

Over a Barrel in Niagara Falls

Two cities straddle the world-famous attraction. In Canada: luxury high-rise hotels. In the U.S.: blight and decay. A tale of urban renewal gone awry p78

Singing Songs of [Your Brand Here]

The record industry's quest for cash has made room for a new mogul. Meet Adam Kluger, who's making it big by getting brand names into music p86

Etc.

93

We Know What You Did on Your Sick Leave

As more workers try to mimic Ferris Bueller, corporations are calling in the detectives

Navigator Airport-close attractions to keep that extended flight delay from ruining your holiday vacation	p96
Food As the kosher food market grows, the certification business is booming	p98
Next Life An investment banker leaves high finance to bring high art online	p100
One True Thing A stylish winter boot that will keep you dry to and from work	p101
The Stack The family drama behind the hostile takeover of American institution Anheuser-Busch	p102
Hard Choices Best Buy's Brian Dunn on getting into social media	p104

Politics & Policy

35

Ron Paul's moment

The congressman who wrote End the Fed wants to chair the House panel on monetary policy

Sputtering U.S. hybrid sales don't bode well for the next generation of green cars	p37
When the grassroots are fake	p38
Deficits for decades	p40

Technology

43

Drowning in data

With Web video, users are getting lots more without paying any more. That equation is likely to change

Luring Hollywood into cloud computing	p45
Flipboard brings media dinosaurs into the iPad age	p46
Finland banks on startups	p48
Erasing bad memories	p50

Markets & Finance

53

Miami's Condo King lives

By negotiating deals with his lenders, Jorge Pérez saved his company. Now he's investing again

Private equity may take a big hit on Indian microlenders	p55
How outsiders can buy into Facebook	p55
Inside the expert networks	p56
A hotel boom in Tibet	p58
Bid & Ask: The week's deals	p60

Risk Management

63

What could go wrong?

How insurer Munich Re assesses risk in a world where a volcano in Iceland can shut a plant in Japan

Insurer FM Global plays with fire to make factories safer	p64
Fear of FDIC lawsuits is pushing up insurance costs for risky banks	p65
Beating back emerging threats to corporate data	p66