

Spot Check
Parsing human behavior
at the dog run p82

China in Transition

9

Opening Remarks China looks less threatening in the light of another superpower's rise p10

Bloomberg View Why China-bashing on the campaign does more harm than good p12

Leadership Where will real power reside after the coming political transition? p15

Urban Growth China's megacities-to-be p17

Infrastructure Beware of collapsing bridges and toppling apartment complexes p18

Health Care The diagnosis at mainland hospitals: Corruption and overcharging p20

Inequality Dumpster-diving for cardboard to put a son through university p22

Counterfeiting Weeding out the fakes at Alibaba's 800 million-product online mall p24

Companies & Industries

27

GM's bumpy rollout

Its rushed introduction of the 2013 Malibu may set it back in the meat-and-potatoes midsize market

An Asian thirst for probiotics p28

Siemens hires abroad p29

Al Jazeera's sporty move p30

Briefs: Staples' pullback p33

Charlie Rose/Muhtar Kent p34

Politics & Policy

37

The undecided mind

The presidential election hinges on a small group of wavering voters. Who are they?

City Hall vs. Airbnb p38

Texas: Where football and wealth redistribution collide p39

A looming doctor shortage p40

New Jersey's joyriding pets p41

Boomtown vats Oil storage is a growth industry in Oklahoma p66

Features

60

Branded for Life

The secret joys and sorrows of Smiling Bob, Joe Isuzu, the Dell Dude, and other actors who've given their faces to a company p60

Oil Bank of America

There are 44 million barrels of crude parked in Cushing, Okla. Those who can move it—by truck, train, barge, or pipe—are making a killing p66

The Homeless Billionaire's Deep Thoughts

Nicolas Berggruen has long been famous for having no home and throwing great parties. Now he'd like to save the world, too p74

Etc.

79

Technology

45

E-junk dealin' machine

EcoATM kiosks—which pay cash for used phones—are coming to a supermarket near you

Customer-friendly PayPal? p47

The cloud-based battle to tell you what's on TV tonight p48

Innovator: Pantelis Alexopoulos's push for slimmer disk drives p49

Markets & Finance

51

Nelson Peltz: Still scary

The veteran raider is shaking up the management of money manager Legg Mason

Spanish construction's

drastic contraction p52

Pandora's takeover appeal p54

Bid & Ask: The haul from the Brooke Astor auction p56

The Fine Wines of ... Yinchuan?

China is the world's top Bordeaux importer, but mainland vintners are springing up fast

Behavior What your comportment at the dog park says about you p82

The Commute Tricked-out Airstream trailers are becoming the office of choice for "freedom junkie" entrepreneurs p84

Shopping We put money- and power-themed colognes to the smell test p85

The Stack In Volcker: The Triumph of Persistence, author William Silber chronicles the tenure of a bold and iconoclastic Fed chief p86

Hard Choices The CEO of Newton Investment, and mother of nine, on founding the 30% Club of executives committed to getting more women on company boards p88