

Opening Remarks The MH17 disaster gives Putin a way out in Ukraine. Can he take it? 6

Bloomberg View A lack of will hobbles Dodd-Frank • Reforming the World Bank 8

Global Economics

Ethiopia and other African nations vie for the low-wage factory jobs vanishing in China 11

Amit Shah is the new leader of India's ruling party. He's also facing murder charges 13

Russia's propaganda machine kicks into high gear 13

Clearing up the fuzzy service-sector figures 14

America's shrinking workforce 15

Lithium could power Bolivia's economic future 16

Companies/Industries

Jeff Bewkes made Time Warner the world's biggest target 19

Could Snowpiercer have been a contender? 21

Legroom may soon go the way of free meals and fine china on airlines 22

Briefs: Obamacare's endless day in court; closing time in Margaritaville 23

Politics/Policy

A flood of children crossing alone into the U.S. is taxing immigration and border agencies 24

When hospitals buy clinics, often the only change is higher prices 27

Killing chickens on the run 28

Technology

Internet providers and Netflix battle over the cost of streaming 31

With cyberattacks on the country increasing, Japan takes its first hack at stopping hackers 32

One company's plan to make it big building small chips 33

Xiaomi goes after the iPhone in China 34

Innovation: A laser-equipped helmet to stimulate hair growth 35

Markets/Finance

Over a career, the difference between a strong and a weak company 401(k) can be $870,000 36

Microwaves heat up the high-speed trading war 38

IPOs are getting bigger but leaving less for public investors 39

The art world's gender gap is beginning to shrink—a little 40

Bid/Ask: CBS Outdoor Americas gets more billboards; CIT buys OneWest Bank 41

Features

Young Buns The kids running Burger King are great at cutting fat. Now it's time to beef up sales 42

Cynk Hole How did a company with no assets and no revenue get a $6 billion market valuation? 48

Dog Food Fight Blue Buffalo's nutritional claims have Purina barking mad—and filing suit 52

Etc.

With his new L.A. hotel, the Line, Andrew Zoller sets out to crush the boutique competition 59

Workplace: Yet another study shows women have a harder time getting ahead. A quiz to see how your office stacks up 62

The Critic: NBC's betting its new imported sitcom, Welcome to Sweden, will translate to a U.S. audience 63

Fashion: Ditch the khakis this summer for fun, office-appropriate patterned pants 64

Drinks: Canned beer can be quite good. A bartender's top six-pack 66

What I Wear to Work: An EBay PR executive faces the workday's battles in vintage style 67

How Did I Get Here? Robert Pittman's journey from DJ to MTV co-founder to chief of Clear Channel 68

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

1 "The story is on Burger King and how it's being run by kids."

"Like actual children?"

"Well, the CEO is 33, and the CFO is 28, so by massive global corporation standards, yes."

"We can just set up a shoot and pretend they're children. Although, we can also just photoshop diapers on the CEO."

"Shoot sounds great."

2 "Triumphant child king."

3 "Contemplative child king."

4 "Hungry child king."

5 "Three burger kings."

6 "Throne with a booster seat."

7 "I think the booster seat gets enough of the point across."

"I understand. The children are a crushing reminder of my own lost youth, too."

