

Bloomberg Businessweek

Contents

Office Supply
Bourbon to build
team spirit p112

Opening Remarks

12

Did a trendy economic theory, which guided a part of the stimulus package, backfire on Obama?

Bloomberg View Let vulture funds swoop into the housing market; a soft-touch SEC p14

Global Economics

17

Panic in the piazza

Berlusconi's gone. Still, it may be too late for an austerity plan to solve Italy's debt crisis

Seeking exports—fast p18
Big Pharma's China crunch p20
An Argentine cattle tale p20
Comic relief for Ireland p22
Tom Keene's EconoChat p22
Seven days ahead p24

Companies & Industries

27

The Steel King trips up

An anemic global economy and Chinese competition have exposed the frailty of Lakshmi Mittal's empire

Attention "mission shoppers" p28
Big Oil rethinks bigness p29
More Barbie rivals in China p30
Carlos Slim skirts a TV ban p31
Briefs p32

Politics & Policy

35

Protecting the Pentagon

Republicans in Congress look for ways to spare Defense from the automatic chopping block

Semper Finance for the Marine Corps p37
Enviros are cooling toward Obama p38
A light bulb rebellion p41
Remembering Reagan p42

Technology

45

Drug war bloggers

Mexico's press lives in fear of reprisals, so posts and tweets are filling an information void

Celebrity tech investors p46
Amazon's Fire-maker p47
A polarizing Groupon IPO p48
Innovator: Crowdsourceror p49
Charlie Rose: Mark Zuckerberg and Sheryl Sandberg p50

Markets & Finance

53

New bond market frontier

The Navajo Nation plans a $120 million issue to make job-creating investments

Yacktman triumphs—again p54
Rebuilding in Baltimore p55
A $1 million taxi license p56
European banks reduce their stakes in sovereign bonds p57
Bid & Ask p58

The Best B-Schools

61

Taking no chances

With students unwilling to leave jobs to go to school, part-time and executive MBA programs thrive

The Big Question: Nitin Nohria, dean of Harvard Business School, and former HP Chief Executive Carly Fiorina on what an MBA education should teach tomorrow's business leaders p68

Take this job and... At the Harvest Select catfish plant in Uniontown, Ala. p70

Features

70

Ready to Work?

In the wake of an immigrant exodus, Alabama has jobs. Trouble is, Americans don't want them p70

The Mortgage of the Future

The U.S. housing finance system is in crisis. Here's how to fix it p80

Pipe Dreams

The planned Keystone XL pipeline has inflamed foes. It may not even be good business p86

The End of Borders Is Not the End of Books

An inside look at the real reasons for the once-beloved chain's demise p94

Etc.

107

Here's Looking at Gold, Kid

Seventy years after Casablanca, the Moroccan city strives to build its brand as it weighs an Olympic bid

Branding How SMU's college football program bought its way back from the dead p110
The One ... Desk hooch: An artisanal Kentucky bourbon called Angel's Envy p112
Business Class British Airways' cultural decompression chamber p113
The Stack Robert Greenfield's The Last Sultan is a meticulous account of music mogul Ahmet Ertegun's convoluted rise to the top with Atlantic Records p114
Hard Choices Thomas J. Sargent, the newly minted Nobel prize-winning economist, on his decision to join the Hutchin Hill hedge fund p116