

DreamWorks denied
Shrek wasn't enough to make the studio work p82

Opening Remarks

5

Political unity is the only way to guarantee the euro's strength, says ECB President Trichet, though it's far from certain whether Europe can muster the willpower to hang together

Global Economics

9

Argentina? Really?

It's long been an economic pariah, but its banks are cheap and political change is in the offing

A young chancellor's talk worries British investors p10
China's savers turn to stocks p12
Greece hurts green power p14
Wages rise in Bangalore p14
Dining in France: Très cher p16
Tom Keene & Paul Volcker p16

Companies & Industries

18

Subaru's sales drive

By courting financially solid buyers with quirky tastes, the carmaker sped through the recession

Pint-size nuclear reactors p20
Why gun sales are slipping p21
The many, many cases against Big Tobacco p21
A makeover for Procter & Gamble's Pantene p23
In Brief p24

Politics & Policy

27

Political animals

Even as economies recover, there's no end to the political demands on the world's central bankers

Bair's FDIC loses some bite p28
Unmasking D.C. lobbyists p30
Closing the Iran loophole p31
Ire over a proposed IRS rule p32
Why welfare claims dropped as the economy worsened p33

Holding on Kirchner's party may be in trouble p9

Technology

35

Bargain basement 4G

How Clearwire chief Craig McCaw built a new network on the cheap to take on Verizon and AT&T

One year in, Microsoft's Bing is gaining share in search p37
Enlisting parasites to battle autoimmune disorders p38
The Angry Birds iPhone app makes some Finns happy p39
Barry Kahn's software can fill a sports stadium p39

Markets & Finance

41

Buyout IPOs are no buy

The market rally has private equity firms selling. Investors who bite at those offerings are seeing red

Goldman wrestles the SEC p42
Investors flock to the U.S. p43
Bargain hunting in Europe p43
Wall Street's top cop p44
Charlie Rose p45
Pru is closer to nabbing AIA p46
Templeton's bond star p46

Dying breed? Traders on the floor of the NYSE on May 6

Features

48

The Machines that Ate the Market

Computer trading has brought with it a new kind of crash. Behind the devastating May 6 drop p48

Payday Nation

How lending against paychecks grew out of a single shack to become a staple of U.S. strip malls p56

The Star of the Home Shopping Network

When Mindy Grossman took over, HSN sold elastic-waist pants and ThighMasters. Not anymore p60

The Tech 100

China scores big in Bloomberg Businessweek's annual list of the top technology companies p65

Etc.

73

Notes on a Meltdown

Researching her book about a novelist-turned-trader, Martha McPhee got an inside view of the financial crisis

Hands On A new "dualbook" that's part Kindle, part iPad—and partly successful p76
Next Life A former derivatives trader now measures success one cake at a time p77
Executive Itinerary: Busan, Korea The G-20 host is an outdoorsman's paradise p78
Wealth Tech fund manager Paul Wick likes the margins and cash flow in software p80
One True Thing The perfect pair of khakis for work and play p81
The Stack Dream team Spielberg, Katzenberg, and Geffen founded DreamWorks to rule Hollywood. The story of how their vision failed p82
Hard Choices John Legere on his decision to hang tough at Global Crossing p84