

Opening Remarks Merkel's no-drama style has endeared her to German voters	10
Bloomberg View Letting the gun lobby cripple the ATF • Use U.S. aid as leverage with Egypt	12
Global Economics
The price of onions in India—a good gauge of inflation—has more than doubled in a year	15
Cheap natural gas is powering a $100 billion investment boom in U.S. chemical plants	16
World Cup tickets, valued in the staples consumed by average Brazilians	17
Why the risk of a financial crisis is still small in China despite its ballooning debt	18
Hungarian entrepreneurs are trooping to London, drawn by its business-friendly environment	18
Correlations: A reality check for government data	19
Companies/Industries
Great Wall Motor is a Chinese carmaker with a difference: It rides alone	20
Wal-Mart's founding family bankrolls a lender that targets Hispanics	21
Moroccan argan oil is the hottest elixir in cosmetics right now	22
Why His Royal Highness has stroller makers on the edge of their seats	23
Briefs: Apple's third-quarter earnings are a relief to investors	24
Charlie Rose talks to TransCanada CEO Russ Girling	25
Politics/Policy
As Detroit implodes, its next-door neighbor profits	27
Meet the farmworkers the U.S. can't live without—South Africans	28
Obama's "middle out" strategy to fix a middling economy	30
A Bill: Congress moves to limit government spying on your old e-mails	33
Technology
OnStar and Garmin try not to get lost as free map apps proliferate	35
How Microsoft learned to stop worrying and love iOS and Android	36
East Coast transplant Greylock Partners is beating many VCs in Silicon Valley	37
Russian wireless carriers plan to spend billions of dollars to speed up the country's pokey mobile networks	38
Innovation: A mechanized garage that parks and retrieves cars in minutes	39
Markets/Finance
Steve Cohen's legal woes are intensifying but may leave many aspects of his life unchanged	40
Regulators are reviewing laws that allowed large banks to plunge into raw materials markets	41
Real estate deals gone wrong show how Detroit's two pension funds became cash cows for a select few	42
Bravely buying stocks in 2009, Berkshire Hathaway's Charlie Munger demonstrated his golden touch	44
Bid/Ask: Daniel Loeb's Third Point hedge fund sells back 40 million shares to Yahoo!	45
Features
Greek Tragedies Trying to land a job when one-in-three is out of work	46
Unhappy Ending Barnes & Noble closes the book on its very expensive digital misadventure	52
Asylum Case The Department of Homeland Security struggles to build its $4.5 billion home	56
Etc.
The nerds who write The Simpsons are dead serious about their sports-free fantasy league	63
Sports: The five most pricey college football tickets—from $1,265 to $2,500	66
Fashion: Shorts that women (only) can get away with at the office	66
Tech: Powering up for the long haul with five portable chargers	67
Fashion: Shades cool enough for James Dean and Sidney Poitier are cool enough for work	68
The Critic: In Blue Jasmine , Woody Allen returns to wealth and women in a takeoff on the Madoff scandal	70
What I Wear: A free-flowing style befits a blogger for Free People	71
How Did I Get Here? Former supermodel Kathy Ireland on creating her $2 billion design empire	72

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

