

Funky Fridges
A stomach-curdling report from the office lunchroom p77

Opening Remarks

7

The weak economy has some state politicians resorting to slippery accounting to balance their budgets. Here are a few honest ways to get their houses in order

Global Economics

13

A windfall for Germany
Despite voter ire at bailing out its neighbors, for Berlin, saving the euro is well worth the price

Singapore could grow faster than China this year p15
Japan's flight from the countryside p15
Reforming India's courts p16
Spotting emerging market entrepreneurs p20
Tom Keene's EconoChat p20

Companies & Industries

22

BP's Big Oil foes
The blame game goes on in the Gulf; now BP is being shunned by its own industry

Coke's World Cup song is a music and marketing hit p24
An early test for Alzheimer's p25
George Steinbrenner, 1930-2010 p26
Hunting Playboy bunnies p27
Discount air power in Asia p27
In Brief p28

Politics & Policy

31

GM's IPO: A tough sell
The automaker must persuade investors burned by the government takeover to buy in again

A bleak outlook for Dems p32
Rory (Reid) runs in Nevada p33
Charlie Rose/Valerie Jarrett p34
Medical pot, tax boon? p35
The Bush tax cuts battle p36
How Wal-Mart won Chicago p37

Technology

39

Google eats Baidu's dust
As the U.S. giant struggles in China, its Beijing-based rival is dominating the huge search market

Spotty reception for mobile companies in Africa p40
Finland's broadband plan p42
The Facebook suit and the ownership of an idea p42
A flying car. Really p43

Markets & Finance

44

Renters revive Miami
Price cuts are helping fill 7,000 unsold condos in the city's core, giving life to once-dark neighborhoods

Stressed over European stress tests p46
Tech stocks look cheap p47
A top fund manager gets back into banks p47
Goldman is IPO king p48
Bid & Ask: The week's deals p49

Retirement

51

Senior swindlers
More seniors are being lured into investment scams—and the elderly are often the scammers

Gen Y's empty piggy bank p52
Europe: Delaying retirement p53
William Bernstein on funding a comfortable retirement p54
Australia's art investment crackdown p55
Forget the 401(k) p56

Melinda and Bill Gates in Houston: A powerful force in U.S. education

Features

58

Bill Gates, Teachers' Pest

His foundation bets that report cards and the profit motive will work wonders in U.S. classrooms p58

Twitter, Twitter, Little Stars

Companies are rushing to hire social media directors—and figure out what they do p64

L'Affaire Sarkozy

What began as a fight among the family controlling L'Oréal has entangled the French President p68

How I Learned to Short the Euro

Are currency traders shameless speculators or essential to the gears of capitalism? p72

Etc.

77

Welcome to Funkytown

With more workers eating at their desks, the recession has made the office fridge a toxic waste dump

One True Thing Office-appropriate shorts for steamy summer weather p80
Next Life A private equity player cashes out to grow money on trees in Brazil p81
Navigator A personalized guide to seafaring vacations p82
Wealth Strategies for capitalizing on alternative assets in volatile times from high-net-worth financial adviser Louis Stanoslovich p84
The Stack In The Zeroes, publisher and Wall Street bard Randall Lane offers a gossipy recollection of a bloated decade and its ultrarich stars p85
Hard Choices Sungjoo Group founder and MCM Group chair Sung-Joo Kim on defying her family's wishes and becoming an entrepreneur p88