

Only Human
Eco-friendly vessels for the dearly departed p101

Opening Remarks

6

Europe is turning to emerging economies to help solve its debt crisis. Too bad they can't deliver

Bloomberg View Lessons from MF Global's meltdown; ethical ways to spur organ donors p8

Global Economics

10

Papandreou's all-in bet
The premier hopes forcing Greeks to vote on a new austerity plan may build stronger support for it

Shoppers' surprising spunk p12
Thailand's costly deluge p13
A schizoid U.S. forecast p14
Furor over fair trade p15
Seven days ahead p16
Charlie Rose/Rahmi Koç p17

Companies & Industries

19

Carmakers are hiring?
The onetime problem industry readies for rising sales—and may add 4,000 jobs this quarter

Hospitals try selling access to their patient data p21
How Reckitt Benckiser is managing its heroin habit p22
Frank Gehry goes East p24
Briefs p25

Politics & Policy

27

A bulldog cop at the SEC
Inspector General David Kotz is great at exposing wrongdoing—and terrifying the staff

The mom and pop coin shop that supplies the U.S. Mint p29
Carving up Obamacare p30
Don't mess with the deed recorders p31
International tax law 101 p32

People Power
Is this good for the euro zone?
p10

Technology

35

Apple's tricks of the trade
It is as zealous about operations as it is about innovation—which may help in the cutthroat TV market

Goggle, Twitter, Facebook p37
Serving up right-sized video p38
The wristband will see you now p38
Innovator: Todd Rider has a kill switch for viruses p40

Markets & Finance

43

Corzine runs out of luck
MF Global may well mark the end of a political and investing career marked by aggressive risk-taking

Projecting the damage from a European debt default p44
A female Saudi bank CEO p45
Bonds win over stocks p46
Dodgy debt-relief firms p48
Bid & Ask p50

Work Zone Asana's Dustin Moskowitz and Justin Rosenstein p76

Features

66

Underground Solution

Can unlocking vast reserves of shale gas reignite the U.S. economy? p66

Dustin and Justin's Quest for Flow

Two ex-Facebookers say their software makes productivity as addictive as, well, Facebook p76

Revenge of the Tech Blogger

How Michael Arrington, TechCrunch's feud-prone founder, is rebranding himself as an investor p84

The Italian Jobs

Chinese immigrants are transforming Italy's economy—and spurring a backlash p90

Etc.

101

The Greening of Death

Digging your own grave and other ways to save the earth—and save big bucks—on your way out

The One For the next Snowmageddon, durable brogue-like boots from Ugg p104
Diplomacy European leaders' wildly creative trash talk, inspired by debt vitriol p106
Behavior Spin class: How people act as they shed blood, sweat, and tears p108
The Stack Robert Levine's Free Ride lays out why the war against Internet freeloaders and pirates may be winnable p110
Hard Choices Condoleezza Rice revisits 2006—her toughest year in Washington—and her heart-to-heart with President George W. Bush over the surge in Iraq p112