

Bear Job Market
Why Beijing is no Prague for young Americans p83

Opening Remarks

10

Law, economics, and the humans who befuddle both

Bloomberg View What to do with Syria; Electoral badgering in the Badger State p12

Global Economics

15

Europe's contagion
The region's woes can hurt U.S. exports—and confidence—in roundabout ways

Macau's hot hand cools p16
India's search for revenue p17
China plays trade hardball p18
French elections are tight among expats in the U.K. p20
The week ahead p22

Companies & Industries

25

Samsung's family feud
The head of South Korea's electronics giant is caught in a bitter battle with his siblings

GE readies for waning wind power p27
Novo Nordisk's search for a once-a-day insulin pill p28
IPads head skyward p30
Briefs p32

Politics & Policy

35

Some way to greet a hero
Wounded troops come home from war only to wait years for the help they need

Locking up the best ideas p36
Business balks at a tax cut p38
Cleaning up on clean cars p38
Election year Euro-bashing p41
The parties party—you pay p42
Charlie Rose/Jeb Bush p44

Technology

47

Steve Jobs's Mini-Me
Phil Schiller hams it up onstage, but more than anyone he's in charge of keeping Apple cool

The debut of Airtime's flesh-free video chat p48
Designing Silicon Valley p50
The war on meetings p51
Innovator: Recruiting gamers to fight disease p52

Markets & Finance

54

What fracking?
Landowners in Wayne County, Pa., envisioned riches from big reserves of gas. So much for dreams

Foreign banks are hamstrung by Beijing p56
Ford and GE want you to buy their debt p57
Say on pay sways boards p58
Bid & Ask: The week's deals p60

Underwater treasure Odyssey's CEO with a bit of the ocean's bounty p70

Features

62

American Pain

How did the George twins build an illegal prescription painkilling empire? A few pills at a time p62

Tales From the Deep

When explorers from Odyssey Marine Exploration found some $500 million in sunken treasure, they thought it was theirs to keep. Spain disagreed p70

In Defense of Lobbyists. Really

Howard Marlowe is on a 35-year mission to restore the good name of one of America's most despised professions p76

Etc.

83

China Doesn't Want You

Think Mandarin, a passport, and a good idea will allow you to jump-start your career? Not so fast ...

References Buzzwords, errors, old family ties—how to tell when recommendation letters should be sent to “trash” rather than a prospective employer p86
Next Life A rebel spirit drove the founder of Confederate Motorcycles to turn from a New Orleans law practice to a passion shared by Bruce Springsteen and Brad Pitt p87
Hall of Fame Could they really be that stupid in 140 characters or less? Yep p88
The Stack In The Fish That Ate the Whale, Rich Cohen tells how banana king Sam Zennurray came from nowhere to create an archetype, “the gringo in platonic form” p90
Hard Choices Boxer Manny Pacquiao recalls being KO’d in politics p92