

Guitar Hero

A tech millionaire rediscovers his first love p69

Opening Remarks

6

The Chief Justice's ruling on Obamacare reflects the thinking of a chief executive

Bloomberg View The Barclays scandal shows there's still something rotten about banking p8

Global Economics

11

The price of too big to fail
Academics say big banks saved $120 billion in lower financing costs thanks to government backing

A slow train for coal exports p12
Germany's case of euro flu p13
U.S. drought, global crisis? p14
The desk rental indicator p15
Tom Keene's EconoChat p15
The week ahead p16

Companies & Industries

19

P&G tidies up in Vietnam
With U.S. demand lagging, the personal-care giant looks to a booming market filled with young shoppers

The Olympic goals of NBC Sports Network p20
Porsche tries to retain its sports car cred p22
Briefs: GlaxoSmithKline p23

Politics & Policy

24

The case for mandates
They may not be popular, but without them people who avoid insurance get a free ride

To fund your MBA, borrow from alums p26
How real is reshoring? p27
Policing Obamacare p28
Attack ads in Colorado p28

Out
Barclays's Diamond p39

Technology

31

Hardware is hot again
Software gurus have rediscovered nuts and bolts—and are making some products in the U.S.

Big brands move into mobile ads p33
Shazam's second-screen strategy p34
Nintendo vs. Apple p35
Innovator: Into the woods p36

Markets & Finance

39

First, Barclays. Next ...
A global probe of interest rate manipulation gives a glimpse of what the scandal may cost banks

Drills for a euro collapse p40
The surprise beneficiaries of Mumbai's real estate boom p41
In mutual funds, a tortoise beats a hare p42
Bid & Ask: Bud gets a mate p43

Global Harvest Deere's sales are brisk in markets like South America p44

Features

44

Planet Deere

The Illinois icon is helping the world's farms meet soaring demand for food with its highly customizable tractors—and reaping the rewards of its very own export boom p44

Connecticut's Ribbon of Hardship

In the most unequal region in the country, the Lazarus family is trying to get on the ladder of upward mobility. It's a steep climb p50

Myanmar Opens Up

Chaos, opportunity—and no cell service anywhere. Inside the soon-to-be-booming Asian market p56

Etc.

63

The Sweet Taste of Victory

For creators of artisanal delights, a softi award is akin to an Oscar—and the food industry is taking note

Office Envy What is part Bond-villain lair, part Space Age greenhouse? The subterranean headquarters of Swedish broadband company Bahnhof p66
Billionaires Brazil's richest man tweets his hair implant to 1 million followers p68
Next Life David Kalt sold his billion-dollar tech company to run the legendary Chicago Music Exchange—and sell guitars to the likes of Johnny Depp p69
True Crime An excerpt from Octopys, Guy Lawson's new book about Bayou Hedge Fund's massive deceit, shows how easily the accountant cooked the books p70
Hard Choices Spurned twice, USA Network's Kay Koplovitz gets a cable deal p72