

Bloomberg Businessweek

Contents

Thick-skinned Need a conflict-resolution buddy? p84

December 10 — December 16, 2012
Bloomberg Businessweek

Opening Remarks

14

The U.S. needs to invest for the future. It also needs to curb spending. Here's how it can do both

Bloomberg View End Britain's embrace of austerity; ads and hedge funds don't mix p16

Global Economics

19

Dangerous caution

How Japan's risk-aversion has sidelined 844 trillion yen—and hurt both markets and nest eggs

Euro-crisis yardstick p20

The shallow Mississippi p20

China: Divorce hurts stocks p21

Hitler's a hit in India p22

Tom Keene's EconoChat p23

Companies & Industries

27

So long, airport limo

Ford is scrambling to make the Lincoln brand hip enough for the Gen X consumer

Soup's on at Tommy Bahama p29

MGM's big bet on Bilbo p30

These mannequins are watching you p32

Briefs: The ax swings at Citi p33

Politics & Policy

35

It's decision time

Obamacare's not going away, and states risk more federal intervention by not dealing with it now

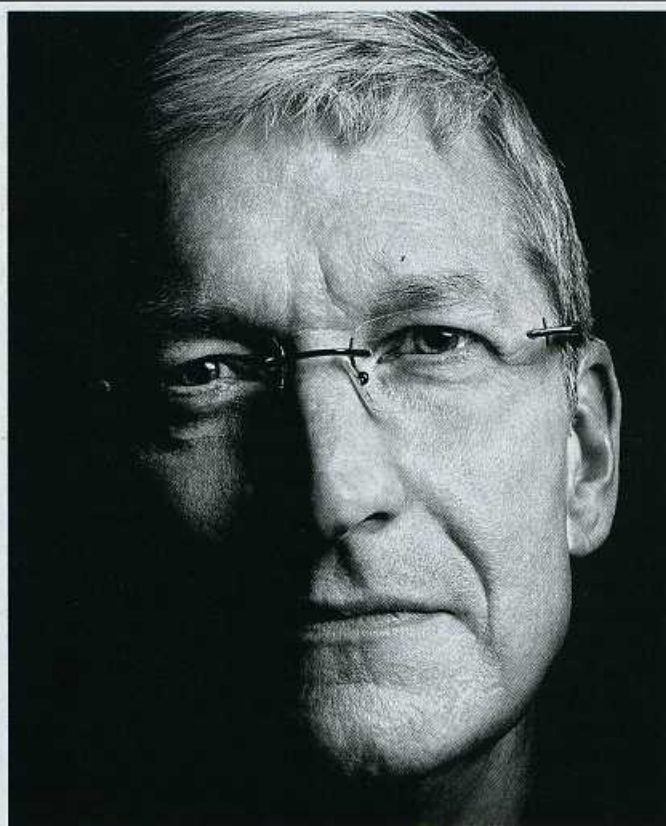

Budget delays' high price p36

Real road hogs in Texas p37

Political futures' dim future p38

Who's over with Grover and who's not p41

Charlie Rose: Robert Gates p42

Features

62

Tim Cook's Freshman Year

The Apple CEO, in his most wide-ranging interview since succeeding Jobs, talks about how the company now works, the view that he's "robotic," and the return of Apple manufacturing to the U.S. p62

Etc.

79

Party Like It's 2012

Office holiday bashes are back—and they're just as weird as ever

Rant It's bonus season, which means class war at top law firms p82

Branding Fictional brands such as Duff Beer, Dunder Mifflin, and the Mighty Ducks are making actual profits p83

Strategy Kayak.com's unorthodox problem-solving style is helped by the elephant in the room, specifically a two-foot-tall plush toy named Annabelle p84

Conspicuous Consumption How lucrative is Middle-earth? Heading there with The Hobbit. Plus Sebastian Faulks's A Possible Life and lessons from Masters of Disaster p86

Hard Choices Mary Schapiro talks about her tumultuous tenure at the SEC p88

Technology

44

Big Daddy of Big Data

GE stakes a claim in the "Industrial Internet," where it would extract data to boost machines' efficiency

Indonesia: Where BlackBerry still gets some love p46

Innovator: A flu shot for life p48

Charting the evolution of video games p50

Markets & Finance

52

What crisis?

Loan relief, private equity purchases, and refinancings have kept foreclosures down

An FBI spy on Wall Street p54

Hedge funds bet on tech p56

Reforms in France fall flat p56

Private equity's new trading partners: private equity p57

Bid & Ask: The week's deals p58

Here to stay
GOP governors
in a quandary
p35