

| | |
|---|----|
| Opening Remarks Trade could heal the 70-year rift between India and Pakistan | 8 |
| Bloomberg View The U.K.'s Labour Party looks left • High anxiety over Fed rate hikes | 10 |
| Global Economics | |
| As China's growth sputters, President Xi Jinping's reform agenda takes a back seat | 12 |
| A child-care shortage puts the squeeze on millennial moms and dads | 13 |
| The DIY creativity of Cuban entrepreneurs | 14 |
| With the Kremlin tightening its purse strings, even Putin gets a pay cut | 15 |
| The Great American Egg Crisis | 16 |
| Companies/Industries | |
| Warren Buffett and 3G are about to take a knife to Kraft | 18 |
| Citroën's new China head arrives just in time for an industry meltdown | 20 |
| How Fujifilm thrives in the era that brought Eastman Kodak to its knees | 21 |
| Skechers won't get burned next time a fad becomes a fiasco | 22 |
| Briefs: Pay raises at Wal-Mart shrink its bottom line; Petco prepares to go public | 23 |
| Politics/Policy | |
| Fraudsters came up with a new way to bilk Medicare—in Nicaragua | 25 |
| Super PACs find a friend in LLCs | 26 |
| The EPA has a pig poop problem | 27 |
| Scott Walker rides high on a hog | 29 |
| Technology | |
| China's leader in online taxis spends big to keep Uber from gaining ground | 31 |
| Flextronics embraces the Internet of Things | 32 |
| Investors value phone maker HTC at next to nothing | 33 |
| Game of Thrones' new stablemate at HBO: Sesame Street | 34 |
| Innovation: A way to supercharge Wi-Fi capacity | 35 |
| Markets/Finance | |
| Insider trading shifts from the country club to the firewall | 36 |
| Alibaba plots a comeback after $105 billion in market cap vanishes | 37 |
| Legg Mason's Bill Miller is on a hot streak, but redemption remains out of reach | 38 |
| Bid/Ask: IndiGo, India's largest airline, makes a $27 billion deal for 250 Airbus jets | 39 |
| Focus On/Small Business | |
| Good news for Greece, as exports boom for its olive producers | 41 |
| BloomNation takes on the flower powers | 42 |
| Millennials aren't into insurance agents. Enter PolicyGenius | 43 |
| The Mother Company's videos help kids deal with frustration | 44 |
| Small to Big: Business for trampoline park chain Sky Zone is jumping | 46 |
| Features | |
| Legal Flunkies Why record numbers of aspiring attorneys are failing the bar | 48 |
| Ketamine Cure The club drug's second life as a treatment for severe depression | 54 |
| Animal Haus The wild tale of Germany's 3,000-species pet store | 60 |
| Etc. | |
| After 80 years, Airstream jump-started its business. Can the trailers stay on a roll? | 67 |
| Accessories: Two new takes on the more casual commuter briefcase | 70 |
| Survey: How do you motivate employees through the end-of-summer slump? We asked clever bosses | 71 |
| Food: Invasive species make an unusually satisfying meal | 72 |
| The Critic: Mountain-climbing documentary Meru digs deep into what drives us upward | 74 |
| What I Wear to Work: Dr. Jacquie, America's Marriage Coach, gauges her mood before selecting the day's look | 75 |
| How Did I Get Here? Meetup co-founder Scott Heiferman isn't intervening in the 2016 election | 76 |

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

1 "Cover story is on lawyers. The woman who runs the bar exam claims that many law schools have lowered their standards, which would explain why so many grads are failing."

"It's about time someone made a lawyer joke. We'll blaze a glorious trail once again."

"Um... sure."

"As a clever metaphor for the sad state of the law profession, we can shoot someone in a suit acting dumb."

2 "Dumber."

3 "Dumber."

4 "Fifteen percent more dumb—and no banana."

