

The Madness
Hoop dreams and hard realities p83

Opening Remarks

7

The embattled regimes of the Arab world share a common feature: nepotism. Their rulers are learning that modernity brings the demand that people have a chance to succeed on their merits

Global Economics

11

Bond bust ahead?

Economists see early signs of a 1994-style rout that could clobber the global economy

Inflation: Where it hurts	p12
Predicting the jobless rate on Election Day	p13
China's anticorruption drive	p13
The art attack in Egypt	p15
Tom Keene's EconoChat	p15
Seven days ahead	p16

Companies & Industries

19

OnStar calling

GM wants to turn your car into a smartphone on wheels. Some of its rivals have the same idea

Selling Americans on soy	p20
Benetton: From must-have to has-been	p21
Women's tennis rebranded	p22
A parasite-based MS pill	p23
Briefs: NPR, Ford, more	p24
Charlie Rose/Bob Iger	p26

On the set of Crude: Donziger, Trudie Styler, and director Joe Berlinger

Features

56

Amazon Crusader. Corporate Pest. Fraud?

Steven Donziger won an $18 billion verdict against Chevron. But is he clean enough to collect it? p56

Hacker vs. Hacker

The hacking and humiliation of cyber-security firm HBGary is a cautionary tale for business p66

Dispatch from a Divided State

The battle in Wisconsin is about much more than public workers' pay. It's about America's future p72

A Guide to the Galleon Case

The trial begins in one of the biggest insider trading cases in U.S. history. A look at the key elements p79

Jobs

Apple and Samsung are frenemies p37

Politics & Policy

29

The Facebook syndrome

U.S. officials are starting to see China's Internet censorship as a barrier to trade

To shore up housing, states try principal writedowns	p31
Big banks vs. big retailers: The brawl over debit-card fees	p32
For Obama, a tortuous path to a trade superagency	p33

Technology

37

Samsung's dilemma

The South Korean conglomerate makes the brains inside Apple's hit products but can't develop a hit of its own

Is DoubleClick clicking for Google?	p38
"Group messaging" startups could take South by Southwest by storm	p40
Innovator: Robert McGinnis's desalination discovery	p41

Markets & Finance

43

Carbon shenanigans

Europe's $110 billion market for carbon emissions permits has become an easy mark for cyber criminals

A California developer dares to build again	p44
Former endowment managers at Harvard are cashing in on the university's cachet	p46
Wall Street muni mania	p47
Bid & Ask: The week's deals	p48

Etc.

83

March Madness Is Fleeting

How college hoops superstars handle life after the last buzzer sounds

Work Drug Coconut water catches a wave	p86
One True Thing Nike's new, unisex low-tops can elevate your rec league game. Plus: The interoffice alley-oop	p87
Training For the top-ranked UConn women's basketball squad—as well as a lot of other female athletes—men are the go-to guys for practice	p88
Travel Four regions, 16 epicurean trucks: Bracketing America's foodie-oriented street fare	p90
Hard Choices Oregon State's Craig Robinson ditched a lucrative job in finance for a career in coaching, then took on a long-suffering team	p92