

How the cover gets made

Opening Remarks Skip the subpoenas—to cut emissions, put a price on carbon	12
Bloomberg View Keep bank regulation simple • Seattle's vouchers-for-voters plan	14
Global Economics
Finally, decent raises for Americans	16
Cheap oil is hurting Saudi Arabia, but its citizens feel none of the pain	18
Crackdowns on money laundering starve Somalians of expat cash	19
China can make its own trade deals, thank you very much	20
With the economy slumping, Russians get into the sharing economy	21
Companies/Industries
Carnival Cruises opts for a bigger tent	22
A startup serves good food at Chinese factories—and finds the profits tasty	23
As B-schools gain more women, C-suites may as well	24
Charlie Rose talks to Italian coffee impresario Andrea Illy	25
When Fido is a foodie	26
Briefs: New York calls foul on fantasy sports; Singles Day rings up $14.3 billion for Alibaba	27
Politics/Policy
As Puerto Rico runs out of cash, Congress dithers	28
Behind labor for Hillary, support for Bernie	29
Shhhh! This library is outsourced	30
Jeb Bush follows an Obama election strategy	31
Technology
Rent-as-you-go in Brooklyn: Communes for app-happy millennials	33
Luxury fashion site Farfetch tries to extend its reach without diluting its brand	34
Don't look to a high-tech hot spot for the latest TV technology. It's from New Jersey	35
E-commerce goes behind bars in Russia	36
Innovation: Fingerprint ID for gun ammo	37
Markets/Finance
Bitcoin can't escape the dark side of the Internet	38
Billionaire Ken Dart builds an empire in the Caribbean	39
Advice to contrite CEOs: Go easy on the paths	40
Bid/Ask: Weyerhaeuser embraces Plumb Creek Timber; an expensive nude	41
Features
Intensive Scare Wired medical devices and lax security leave hospitals open to hackers	42
Sideswiped The scandal undoing MasterCard's $5.7 billion settlement with merchants	48
Cliff Hangers How Bulgaria's Walltopia became the king of indoor rock climbing	54
Etc.
Dani Rylan tries to pull off another miracle on ice—creating a viable women's hockey league	59
Marketing: Among dog breeds, first comes love, then comes AKC recognition, then extreme popularity	62
Appraisals: ArtRank is a resource for those who want art for profit's sake	63
Books: Eight for your holiday reading list (and the bags to carry them)	64
The Critic: ABC hopes Bollywood star Priyanka Chopra will make Quantico an international hit	66
What I Wear to Work: Branding executive and restaurateur Doug Jacob goes for an elevated casual look	67
How Did I Get Here? Grey North America's Michael Houston first dreamed of the ad biz in sixth grade	68

"The cover story is about hacking."

"I'm pretty sure we've covered all the different kinds of hacking: government hacking, Nasdaq hacking, Target hacking, Sony hacking, casino hacking, phone hacking, Port of Antwerp hacking, even strawberry hacking. What's left?"

"Hospitals."

"Oh, that's not good. To steal medical records?"

"Yes, some researchers are trying to prove that hackers can use certain devices to steal someone's identity and even manipulate how the device works."

"That's terrifying. What do these devices look like?"

"Like almost any device you see in a hospital."

"This keeps getting worse."

