

Here, there, everywhere
Cordless gizmos that make your office truly mobile p81

Opening Remarks

6

Zeroing out federal tax breaks and rebuilding the tax code from scratch would help chop away at the deficit. It might also end up fairer for everyone in the long run

Global Economics

9

The Fed's inflation dove

Its board hardly speaks in one voice, but new Vice-Chair Janet Yellen must make it sound like it does

In parched Western Australia, a farmer-miner water fight p10
India's bonds need to bulk up p11

In Chile's Atacama Desert, a solar solution p12

Is China's inflation tamable? p13

Tom Keene's EconoChat p14

Seven days ahead p15

Companies & Industries

17

Unfazed in Egypt

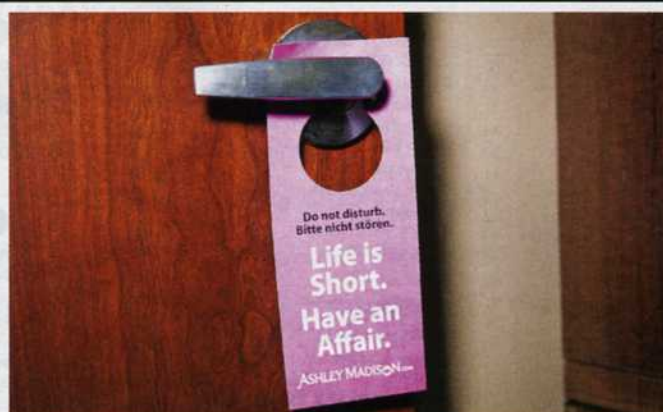

Telecom mogul Naguib Sawiris is staying put, believing business will emerge stronger than ever

Sangamo BioSciences bets on a new form of gene therapy as an AIDS cure p18

The last housing boom is crumbling—literally p20

Romantics of the world, rejoice! Barbie and Ken make up p21

Briefs p22

Cheatin' heart Ashley Madison's CEO calls monogamy "a failed experiment"

Features

50

Attack of the Commerce Clause

The legal battle over health care hinges on a constitutional argument about interstate trade p50

Bill Ackman: Power Grabs with a Smile

The hedge fund manager is polite, chatty, and a master at making companies squirm p54

Cheating, Incorporated

At AshleyMadison.com, the infidelity economy is alive, well, and profitable p60

Charting the Fault Lines

Raghuram Rajan takes on the enormous task of spotting the fractures in the global economy p68

Etc.

73

A Change in the Weatherman

The outlook for TV forecasters is cloudy as they're made obsolete by the Net and other modern nuisances

The Valley San Francisco's Summit café serves up macchiatos and startup cash p76

The Office Lab Whether you're a fitness freak building six-pack abs or a treadmill rat glued to Morning Joe, your gym behavior says a lot about you p78

One True Thing A little black dress that's demure, versatile, and not too pricey p80

Hands On These cordless office gadgets make even filing an expense report fun p81

The Stack He's brusque, stubborn, infuriating—but Donald Rumsfeld's Known and Unknown is a surprisingly nuanced, revealing look at the Bush years p82

Hard Choices As an NFL stoppage looms, the National Hockey League's Gary Bettman recalls the lockout in his sport, and has few regrets p84

Politics & Policy

24

Starving the regulators

A severe budget squeeze at the SEC and CFTC may delay implementation of financial reforms

The GOP vs. the NLRB p26

The 2012 budget won't spread much joy in Washington p27

Coast-to-coast potholes p28

Can Obama end oil and gas tax subsidies? p29

Technology

31

Bandwidth hog patrol

Wireless carriers out to discourage data gluttony devise a pricing plan that's pretty piggy in its own right

Empire-building at Akamai p32

Why Japan is mad for PDFs p33

HuffPo's quirky pay model p34

Charlie Rose: Tim Armstrong and Ariana Huffington p35

Real-time inflation tracking p36

Markets & Finance

38

Mopping up after Madoff

Irving Picard, charged with restoring what he can, has $10 billion in hand and is suing for $100 billion more

Battle of the billionaires: How Carlos Slim bested Bill Gates and Warren Buffett in 2010 p40

Commercial real estate is looking healthier p41

Sales are rebounding. Will job growth be next? p41

Bid & Ask: The week's deals p42

Enterprise

44

Charge it on my iPhone

Plug-in readers that verify credit cards help small businesses boost their credibility—and sales

Austria's Impossible Project sees a place for instant film in the Digital Age p46

Main Street business deals are slowly coming back, though prices aren't p47

Business plan competitions: Where are the women? p48