

Dandy
The season's hippest
bow ties p80

Opening Remarks

8

Everything you know about peak oil is wrong.
We're not running out of resources

Bloomberg View The state of the union is ... eh;
Singapore's pay-for-performance plan p10

Global Economics

13

China's next boss

Free-market promoter
Xi Jinping is headed for the White House, California,
and the heartland

London: Occupying the City p14

Greece: Now it can't even afford drugs p16

Will spending save Europe? p17

Tom Keene's EconoChat p17

The week ahead p18

Companies & Industries

21

Hyundai, a contender

Having thrived in America,
the Korean automaker is taking its high-quality, low-
price strategy to Europe

A cork in Aussie wine sales p22

China Unicom: A sharp bet on cheap smartphones p24

Glaxo's got milk p24

The Glock family feud p25

Briefs p26

Politics & Policy

29

Mitt's career question

Romney's greatest strength—his business
savvy—has become his
biggest liability

Eugene Scalia takes on regulators p30

Airplane safety soars p32

GIs go for MBAs p34

Is Dan Quayle's endorsement as valuable as Todd Palin's? p35

Heir apparent
Chinese Vice-
Premier Xi
Jinping p13

Technology

36

BlackBerry's new boss

The former Siemens exec
plans to stay the course,
which is not what history
would suggest

The Megaupload chill p37

Readin', writin', and codin' p39

The coveted black card for Facebook's bug hunters p40

Innovator: Scott R. White makes plastics that fix themselves p42

Markets & Finance

45

Florida con man tells all

Scott Rothstein says
dozens of people helped him with his fraud, and
he's naming them

Shrinking French banks p47

Pimco rethinks Treasuries p48

Credit Suisse's bonus bet p48

Credit score overachievers p49

Bid & Ask: The week's deals p50

Charlie Rose/Top SEC cop p51

Shakeology alchemist Darin Olien on the beach in Malibu, Calif. p66

Features

54

Amazon's Plot to Dominate Publishing

Larry Kirshbaum was the ultimate book industry
insider—until Amazon called p54

China's 65,000-Ton Secret

The two-decade voyage of the Varyag—from Russian castoff to China's first aircraft carrier p60

The Adventures of Superfood Man

Darin Olien is to exotic roots and nuts what Indiana
Jones is to lost arks. But do his drinks work? p66

Why Would Anyone Want to Kill Pietro Ichino?

His prescription for Italy's ailing economy has won him political influence—and an armed escort p70

Etc.

75

Bridges From Nowhere

A Dutch designer tweaks the EU by bringing to life the imaginary spans that adorn euro notes

The One ... Home-office desk chair that's worthy of an executive but doesn't cost a
CEO-size bonus p78

Dining Restaurant experts reveal what gives the power table its punch p79

Fashion Embrace your inner dandy with this season's sharpest bow ties p80

The Stack Longtime Democratic opposition researchers Alan Huffman and Michael Rejebian shed light on the dark art of the political takedown p82

Hard Choices Hollywood mogul Harvey Weinstein discusses his bet on an unlikely
Oscar front-runner: a silent film in black and white p84