

Opening Remarks Chinese investment in the U.S. can benefit both countries—to a point 6

Bloomberg View A step toward a grand bargain on taxes • The wrong business for big banks 8

Global Economics

Why emerging markets are getting crushed 10

As U.S. markets for jobs, housing, and cars heat up, weak GDP figures look like a lagging indicator 11

China's drive for more coal is sucking its rivers dry 12

Morocco weighs legalizing its $10 billion marijuana farming sector 13

Photostat: A look inside the Syrian refugee camp that's become Jordan's fourth-largest city 14

Companies/Industries

Mahindra courts the weekend farmer in the U.S. 17

An Indian doctor does heart surgery for 2 percent of the cost in the States 18

What Boeing has learned from used-car salesmen 19

New bra sizes offer lingerie makers a lift 20

Briefs: Generics give Merck a headache 21

Politics/Policy

For ambitious Democrats, the road to higher office runs through city hall 23

The one word Obama can't say 25

Where tax loopholes live free from scrutiny 25

Legal trench warfare over Obamacare 26

A Bill: Fast-tracking the sale of federal buildings 27

Charlie Rose talks to Michigan Governor Rick Snyder 28

Technology

Feel-good site Upworthy fine-tunes and fine-tunes and fine-tunes its viral stories 31

Crowdfunding a super-smartphone to make desktops obsolete 32

SAP, the lagging German software giant, shops up a storm in Silicon Valley 33

The tech convention without an agenda 34

Innovation: Getting cancer cells to scream "come and get me!" 36

Markets/Finance

More than 700 Chinese companies are waiting for new IPO rules so they can go public 38

Boutique investment banks Rothschild and Moelis improve their brand, thanks to a big ad merger 39

Adjustable-rate mortgages are back 40

Wall Street is wooing clients with workouts instead of steak dinners 41

Poland's second-richest man wants to shed the debt that helped build his empire 42

Bid/Ask: Hudson's Bay of Canada goes upscale with its purchase of Saks 43

Features

Saving Yahoo Marissa Mayer's plan to transform a Web icon into a mobile media company 44

The Plutonium Gang In Washington State, CH2M Hill is deconstructing the Atomic Age 50

Russia's Zuckerberg Has VKontakte creator Pavel Durov become a target of the Kremlin? 56

Etc.

What MBAs can learn from Breaking Bad's meth kingpin 63

How to: All you need to know to navigate a night out with the boss 65

Travel: Sampling the high-profile restaurants at an airport goodie hub 66

The Critic: It's mostly nature, says The Sports Gene, and 10,000 hours of practice won't change anything 68

Survey: Seven guiltless beach reads 69

Etiquette: It's better to be forgotten than mocked for sending a cringe-inducing good-bye e-mail 70

What I Wear: Tall fashion, vertiginous heels included, for 6-foot-6-inch Alicia Jay of the Golden State Warriors 71

How Did I Get Here? Sir Martin Sorrell on heading advertising giant WPP 72

Cover Trail

How the cover gets made

1 "I like the portrait, but she looks really... somber."

2 "This has the virtues of hiding her face and still being somber. And we've misspelled her name twice now."

3 "Funny. Is she supposed to be Warren Beatty in Heaven Can Wait?"

4 "She's happy! And surrounded by weird icons."

5 "The Yahoo font is fun." "Why don't we try it with a purple background?"

6 "I think it's good if we commit to the purple." "OK. But it's...very purple."