COVER

Fiber pathways of a female human brain mapped noninvasively with diffusion magnetic resonance imaging. The image shows an axial view from above (front is at top). Major pathways of the human frontal lobes, and their organization as orthogonal grids, are shown here (cerebral association pathways, vertical; transverse pathways, horizontal). For a description of cortical networks, see the special section beginning on page 577.

- 592 Structure-Based Design of a Fusion Glycoprotein Vaccine for Respiratory Syncytial Virus
J. S. McLellan et al.
Molecular engineering of a childhood virus surface protein significantly improves protective responses in mice and macaques.
>> News story p. 546

REPORTS

- 598 Evolution of the Magnetic Field Structure of the Crab Pulsar
A. Lyne et al.
Long-term measurements show the systematic evolution of the radiation pattern of one of the youngest neutron stars known.
- 601 Quantum Limit of Heat Flow Across a Single Electronic Channel
S. Jezouin et al.
The unit of heat carried by electrons is measured using noise thermometry and found to be consistent with predictions.
>> Perspective p. 569
- 604 Parameter Space Compression Underlies Emergent Theories and Predictive Models
B. B. Machta et al.
An information-theoretical approach is used to distinguish the important parameters in two archetypical physics models.
- 607 Deterministically Encoding Quantum Information Using 100-Photon Schrödinger Cat States
B. Vlastakis et al.
A scheme is demonstrated for coherently mapping the state of a single superconducting qubit onto a large number of photons.
>> Perspective p. 568

- 611 Real-Space Identification of Intermolecular Bonding with Atomic Force Microscopy
J. Zhang et al.
An atomic force microscope tip bearing a single carbon monoxide molecule was used to resolve hydrogen bonding contacts between molecules.
- 614 One-Dimensional Electrical Contact to a Two-Dimensional Material
L. Wang et al.
Metal contacts to graphene along its edge improve bonding and, in turn, electronic performance.
- 617 Pacific Ocean Heat Content During the Past 10,000 Years
Y. Rosenthal et al.
Marine records show how ocean heat content has varied in step with climate over the past 10,000 years.
- 621 Reconstructing the Microbial Diversity and Function of Pre-Agricultural Tallgrass Prairie Soils in the United States
N. Fierer et al.
Analysis of microbiota in prairie soil relicts offers insights into the ecological function of a near-extinct biome.
