

CONTENTS

OCTOBER 2017 • VOL. 232 • NO. 4 • OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

FRONT

WORLD FOOD DAY

Where calories count

VISIONS

EXPLORE

Animals: dogs and cats, bees and bears – and wild creatures like the slow loris (above) that suffer in the illegal pet trade.

On the Cover To document Jane Goodall's discoveries about chimps, National Geographic sent photographer Hugo van Lawick. First he posed her for photos like this one. Later he proposed.
Photo by Hugo van Lawick

Corrections and Clarifications
Go to natgeo.com/corrections.

FEATURES

108 | LIFE ON THE EDGE

For centuries Nenets herders and their reindeer have made 800-mile annual migrations in the Russian Arctic. Now obstacles include climate change and a natural gas field.
By Gleb Raygorodetsky Photographs by Evgenia Arbugaeva

30 | BECOMING JANE GOODALL

Never before seen film footage shows the novice researcher during her landmark study of chimps in Tanzania. With fame came attempts to mythologize and control her – but also the means to continue the work that has been her life's passion.

By Tony Gerber, Photographs by Hugo van Lawick

52 | DUBAI'S AUDACIOUS GOAL

The energy-intensive city aims to go much greener.
By Robert Kunzig Photographs by Luca Locatelli

100 | WITHOUT A HOME, OR HOPE

Persecution is driving the Rohingya from Myanmar.
By Brook Larmer, Photographs by William Daniels

70 | DEBATING TROPHY HUNTING

Does hunting aid conservation, as some claim?
By Michael Paterniti, Photographs by David Chancellor

130 | ON ALL FLOORS

In an infamous Manila slum, apartment hallways teem with life.
By Jeremy Berlin, Photographs by Mariusz Janiszewski

PHOTOS: EVGENIA ARBUGAeva (NENETS); JOEL SARTORE, NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC PHOTO ARK ISLOW LDRIS)

ELSEWHERE

TELEVISION

THE MARATHON RECORD QUEST

Completing a marathon – 26.2 miles – in under two hours is a feat that has eluded runners. This past May, Eliud Kipchoge came within 26 seconds of breaking the barrier. The experiences of Kipchoge and other elite runners, their personal lives and dreams as well as their training – are chronicled in the new documentary Breaking2. Created through a Nike–National Geographic partnership, the program will air at 8/7c on September 20 on National Geographic.

TRAVELER MAGAZINE

JOURNEYS OF A LIFETIME

Dive into Sicily on a delicious cultural journey. Explore intriguing India in different ways, including camping in the Himalayas. And surprise yourself with 15 amazingly achievable adventures, in the October/November issue of Traveler magazine.

Subscriptions For subscription information, call 1-800-NGS-LINE (647-5463). Our subscriber names available to you prefer not to be included, you may call 1-800-647-5463. To opt out of our request to DMA Choice, c/o Data

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC ISSN 0027-9549 PERIODICALS POSTAGE PAID AT CANADA, AGREEMENT NUMBER 40015598. REPLY ENFRANCARE EMO FRANCO 11, 20162 MILANO, AUT. TRIB. MI 258/2 MEMBERS IF THE POSTAL SERVICE