ON THE COVER

UK Biobank

The UK Biobank is a prospective cohort study that has collected genetic and phenotypic data from some 500,000 people from the United Kingdom. In this week's issue, Jonathan Marchini, Peter Donnelly and colleagues report on the data set for the full cohort, including high-resolution genetic data, and Stephen Smith, Jonathan Marchini and colleagues describe brain imaging of 8,428 participants and genome-wide association studies of 3,144 brain-imaging phenotypes.
